AWARDING INSTITUTION

University of Suffolk (UK)

Graduate midwives are central to the design and delivery of equitable, ethical health systems that focus on maternal and child health, prevention of illness, care of physical and mental health in maternal and child healthcare and community settings. Midwives are at the forefront of new models of working including leading services. Investing in midwifery education so that graduate midwives can tailor their care to people-centred models is imperative for the individuals and the ongoing development of the profession.

This degree consisting of four 20 credit modules and a 40 credit dissertation for qualified, experienced midwives to 'top up' their existing qualifications to a degree in Midwifery supports this vision.

Learning Outcomes

1. Manage self and others in practice in accordance with the NMC standards and ethical, legal frameworks that ensures the primacy of service user interest, respecting wellbeing and human rights.
2. Lead the delivery of innovative, evidence based practice within planned progressive and individualised care plans, which generates new understanding of the theoretical foundations of midwifery care.
3. Deploy techniques of analysis and enquiry to midwifery practice.
4. Appreciate uncertainty, ambiguity and limits of knowledge.
5. Show a critical appreciation of the principles of good governance in the management, leadership and development of midwifery care.
6. Demonstrate initiative and personal responsibility in your own personal and professional development.
7. Demonstrate a commitment to furthering the professional status of midwifery care.
8. Show a critical appreciation of the principles of good governance in the management, leadership and development of care.
